REPORT ON THE BEACH CLEAN-UP EVENT

Event Details:

Date: 16 march 2024

Time: 3:00 PM - 5:00 PM

Beach Location: Vettukadu Beach

Number of Green Volunteers:60

Introduction:

The Centre for Environmental Studies and Paryavaran Mitra Eco Club, in collaboration with the Sutera Foundation, proudly presented a significant event, the "Beach Clean-Up" as part of the "No More Beach Clean-Ups" Mega Awareness Campaign. This event was organized with the support of the Thiruvananthapuram Municipal Corporation. The primary aim of this initiative was to raise awareness about the importance of preserving our pristine shores and oceans by actively engaging in responsible environmental practices.

Event Highlights:

- 1. Location: Vettukadu Beach was chosen as the site for this Beach Clean-Up due to its popularity and the need for regular maintenance. The beach, located along the Arabian Sea, serves as a vital recreational spot for the local community and tourists alike.
- 2. Participation: The event attracted an impressive turnout of 60 green volunteers, including students from Mar Gregorios College of Law and enthusiastic members of the Paryavaran Mitra Eco Club. The diversity in age and background among the participants highlighted the inclusive nature of the campaign.
- 3. Awareness: Prior to commencing the clean-up activities, an informative session was conducted by environmental experts and representatives from the Thiruvananthapuram Municipal Corporation. They shared valuable insights into the adverse effects of littering and pollution on coastal ecosystems and marine life. The session emphasized the urgent need for collective action to protect our environment.
- 4. Clean-Up Activities: The volunteers were provided with gloves, trash bags, and other necessary equipment. They were divided into groups; each assigned a specific section of the beach to clean. The participants enthusiastically collected various forms of waste, including plastic bottles, wrappers, cigarette butts, and other debris.
- 5. Waste Sorting: To ensure responsible waste management, collected materials were sorted into recyclables and non-recyclables. Recycling bins were provided for recyclable waste, while non-recyclables were properly disposed of in designated containers.
- 6. Collaboration: The event fostered collaboration between the local community, educational institutions, and governmental bodies. This cooperative effort showcased the potential for positive change when stakeholders come together for a common cause.

Achievements:

The Beach Clean-Up event at Veli Beach on 16 March 2024, made significant strides in raising environmental awareness and promoting responsible behavior. Some notable achievements include:

- Removal of a substantial amount of litter and waste from the beach, contributing to the restoration of the natural beauty of Vettukadu Beach.
- Education and enlightenment of 60 volunteers and countless onlookers regarding the importance of preserving our coastal ecosystems.
- Enhancement of community engagement and the establishment of lasting partnerships between educational institutions, NGOs, and local authorities in the pursuit of sustainable environmental practices.

 Brand auditing was done.

Conclusion:

The "Beach Clean-Up" event organized by the Centre for Environmental Studies and Paryavaran Mitra Eco Club, in association with the Sutera Foundation, was a resounding success in furthering the goals of the "No More Beach Clean-Ups" Mega Awareness Campaign. It demonstrated the power of collective action in preserving our pristine shores and fostering environmental stewardship. The event's impact will hopefully inspire similar initiatives in the future, leading to cleaner and healthier coastal environments for generations to come.

II. REPORT OF THE PRISON PROCEEDINGS

The Legal Aid Clinic Members were vested with the opportunity of conducting a formal survey in the correctional homes in the district in lieu of the Second Prof. V. S. Mallar Memorial Legal Aid Competition, 2023, organized by the esteemed National Law School of India University (NLSIU), Bangalore, in collaboration with the Department of Justice, Ministry of Law and Justice, Government of India. One of the stipulated criteria for the competition was to undertake a comprehensive survey within a prison environment. Hence, the team prepared a comprehensive questionnaire and subsequently divided the team into three distinct groups, each tasked with fulfilling this mission. The Secretary of the District Legal Services Authority, Vanchiyoor granted necessary permissions following a formal request made by Faculty Coordinator, Adv. Ushakumari K.G. The deployment of these three teams to different locations was executed seamlessly on the same day, with the survey sessions scheduled for the dates of 12/10/2023, 13/10/2023, and 14/10/2023. The team was briefed on the decorum and protocols essential for engagement within the correctional facilities and instructed to compile a detailed report for each day of the survey.

Sl No.	Name of the Prison	Details of the Prison	Survey Method : Questionnair e/ Interview	Summary of Interview
1	Central Prison & Correctional Home	1364 Male Inmate	Interview	The prison accommodates only male inmates, ensuring specific classifications based on offenses, age, and health conditions. It offers comprehensive support, including medical, mental, and occupational services, along with educational and recreational programs. Legal aid, family connections, and grievance redressal committees are prioritized to support immates' diverse needs, contributing to a comprehensive care system within the facility.

2	District Jail, Thiruvanant hapuram.	Remand Prisoners:233 Undertrial Prisoners:91 Convicts: 5 Early Release (ER): 2 Additionally, 15 more inmates were slated to be transferred from Attingal jail	Interview	The prison faces challenges of overcrowding and understaffing, hosting 331 immates in a space meant for 270. It offers comprehensive medical care, including psychiatric services and isolation for HIV/AIDS cases. Conflicts among inmates are documented, and education, vocational training, and family connections are supported. Legal aid and an Advisory Board exist to address inmate concerns and recommendations for pardons.
3	Open Jail, Thiruvanant hapuram	57 inmates.	Interview	It was noted that the institution prioritizes the well-being of its occupants, offering adequate living conditions, comprehensive medical care, and educational/vocational programs. Infrequent conflicts are documented, family connections are facilitated, and legal aid is provided, complemented by informing immates about government policies for their benefit, such as self-employment loans and education grants.

4.	Women Prison and Correctio nal Home	Unlock- 58 + 1 Child. Convict- 9 Remand- 44+ 1 Child Under Trial- 5 Interim Bail- 1 Custody- 1	Interview	The historic jail, once a royal construction, currently houses 108 inmates without overcrowding issues, ensuring samitation, healthcare, and vocational training. Despite understaffing, the prison maintains a stress-free environment, visitation rights, fair treatment, and income-generating opportunities for inmates. However, with rising crime rates, the prospect of future overcrowding necessitates immediate action, potentially through facility expansion or the establishment of a new complex, especially for women.
5.	Special Sub-Jail, Thiruvana nthapura m	256 inmates, comprising Remand Prisoners, Undertrial Prisoners, and those sentenced to a term not exceeding 3 months	Interview	It offers basic amenities medical care, and addresse conflicts, emphasizing education, vocational training, and rehabilitation initiatives like the "Freedon Food Factory." Legal aid familial visitation rights, and preparations for transgende prisoner housing were noted along with insights into the operational framework and essential admission documents, stressing adherence to legal procedures.

6.	Women's Open Jail, Thiruvana nthapuram	12 inmates, categorized as follows: a. Convicts: 12 b. On parole: 2	Interview	Emphasizing essential living conditions, medical care education, and vocationa training, the facility pronaotes family connections and offers legal aid. Notably the absence of conflicts, an Advisory Board for pardor recommendations, and inmate awareness of government policies were key insights.
7	Special Sub-Jail, Neyyattink ara	Unlock - 169 • Convicts - 2 • Taken to Medical College due to illness - 1. • Mental Hospital - 2	Interview	While it provides essential amenities, restricted indoor activities, and labor opportunities, specific cases illustrate prolonged imprisonments due to stringent legal measures. Despite maintaining a stress-free atmosphere, the facility's challenges include understaffing and an urgent need for expanded space to address the overcrowding predicament and ensure adequate living conditions for its inmates.

B. MINUTES

B.1. Central Prison and Correctional Home

The Legal Aid Clinic of Mar Gregorios College of Law visited the Central Prison in Thiruvananthapuram as part of a legal aid competition. As of October 12, 2023, the prison housed 1364 male inmates, and living conditions were assessed, emphasizing clean water provision and hygiene. Inmates received medical, mental, and spiritual health services, along with opportunities for social interactions. The prison provided vocational training, education, cultural activities, and recreational facilities. Legal aid services, liaisoning with government departments, and a grievance redressal committee were established to ensure inmates' well-being and rights

B.2. District Prison

The Legal Aid Clinic of Mar Gregorios College visited Thiruvananthapuram's District Jail for the Prof. V. S. Mallar Memorial Legal Aid Competition, encountering communication restrictions. With officials' guidance, they discovered restricted inmate access, requiring a court order, and the prison faced challenges of overcrowding and understaffing with 331 inmates. Adequate living conditions, medical care, and educational programs were observed, but incidents of inmate conflict were acknowledged. Family connections were facilitated within designated hours, legal access was ensured, and an Advisory Board, comprising the Sessions Judge, Chief Judicial Magistrate, and Prison Superintendent, was highlighted for inmate pardon recommendations.

B.3. Open Jail, Thiruvananthapuram

The Open Jail visit revealed a structured environment with restricted access for visitors without a court order. The facility housed 57 inmates, ensuring their well-being with adequate living conditions, comprehensive healthcare, and vocational programs. Incidents of conflict among inmates were rare and meticulously documented. Educational initiatives and vocational training were provided, alongside motivational sessions replacing religious meetings for rehabilitation. Visitation rights were limited but maintained, while legal counsel and government policy awareness were accessible to inmates. An Advisory Board considered inmates for pardon, reflecting a system emphasizing rehabilitation and reform.

MINUTES

B.4. Women Prison And Correctional Home

The Legal Aid Clinic of Mar Gregorios College of Law visited the Women's Prison and Correctional Home in Thiruvananthapuram for a competition. They were unable to directly converse with inmates due to regulations but gathered extensive data. The facility, originally constructed by the Royal Family, houses 108 prisoners with adequate living conditions and essential amenities. Vocational training, income generation through crafts, and daily wages empower the inmates financially. Visitation rights are granted thrice weekly, emphasizing family connections. The prison maintains a stress-free environment, historically housing transgender inmates, with no reported officer misconduct. While understaffed, plans for recruitment are in progress. Future overcrowding concerns prompt the need for facility expansion or a new complex.

B.5. Special Sub- jail Thuruvananthapuram

During a visit to the Special Sub Jail in Thiruvananthapuram, facilitated by Superintendent Surendran M. and Deputy Prison Officer Subhash G. S., limited access to inmates without a court order was observed. As of October 13, 2023, the prison housed 256 inmates with slight overcrowding, providing fundamental amenities and medical attention, including referrals for serious conditions. Efficient resolution and documentation of inter-inmate conflicts were overseen by the Welfare Officer. The prison emphasized education, vocational training, and rehabilitation initiatives, with a focus on motivational sessions and de-addiction programs. Inmates had unrestricted access to meet friends and relatives, with meticulous visitor records maintained. Legal aid was provided through an in-prison Legal Aid Clinic. The visit also revealed ongoing renovations to accommodate transgender prisoners, showcasing a commitment to inclusivity.

B.6. Women's open jail Thiruvananthapuram

During a visit to the Women's Open Jail in Thiruvananthapuram, the first in India exclusively for women, clinic members, guided by Superintendent Sobhia Beevi, learned about the facility's unique features. Access is restricted, requiring a court order, and as of October 13, 2023, the jail housed 12 inmates, with a focus on maintaining adequate living conditions and medical care. Conflict among inmates is absent, and incidents are diligently documented by the Welfare Officer. The facility provides basic education, vocational programs, and motivational sesusions, while also supporting family connections and visitations. Legal counsel, para-legal volunteers, and an Advisory Board contribute to the inmates' support system. Inmates are well-informed about government policies and are actively availing benefits such as self-employment loans and education grants.

B.7. Special Sub jail Neyyattinkara

The Legal Aid Clinic of Mar Gregorios College of Law visited the Special Sub Jail in Neyyatinkara on October 14, 2023, as part of a legal aid competition organized by NLSIU, Bengaluru. The focus was on evaluating the welfare and living conditions, allowing student volunteers to interact and survey inmates. The jail, located in Thozukkal, Neyyatinkara, currently holds 169 inmates, including 2 convicts, 1 taken to a Medical College due to illness, and 2 in a Mental Hospital. Executive officers, totaling 22, oversee the facility, managing various roles. The jail, designed for 71 inmates, is facing significant overcrowding, and emergency healthcare is provided by an on-call pharmacist and nursing assistant.

B.8. Sub-Jail, Attingal

The Legal Aid Clinic visited the District Jail in Thiruvananthapuram, aiming to assess the welfare of incarcerated individuals. Limited access hindered direct conversations with inmates. Superintendent Sajikumar J provided valuable insights. The prison housed 87 inmates, facing issues of overcrowding and understaffing, surpassing its official capacity of 42. Adequate living conditions were noted, yet conflicts among inmates were not uncommon and documented by welfare officers. Healthcare included routine medication and psychiatric services, with HIV/AIDS-diagnosed inmates transferred to the Central Prison. Basic education and vocational programs were lacking, limiting inmates to cooking and cleaning without compensation. Family visitation rights were restricted, allowing short visits twice a week, and inmates could communicate with families on alternate days. Legal counsel and para-legal volunteers were accessible to inmates.

III. SPEED MENTORING

Speed mentoring is a structured and time-efficient approach to mentoring where mentees seeking guidance, rotate through a series of short, focused interactions with different mentors. Each interaction, or "speed mentoring session," lasts for a brief period, usually a few minutes. During this time, mentees can ask questions, or discuss specific topics with mentors. The goal is to provide mentees exposure to a variety of perspectives and insights in a condensed time frame, facilitating rapid learning and networking. With the enthusiastic participation of over 150 children from 15+ schools in the districts of Trivandrum and Kollam in Kerala, the speed mentoring programme was launched. These workshops, which were led by over 20 passionate law student volunteers, offered a forum for insightful conversations and discussions on legal awareness subjects such as child labour, child marriage, the right to an education, the Juvenile Justice Act, and the POCSO Act. The collaborative effort between students and volunteers contributed to spreading awareness and fostering a sense of legal empowerment among the school community.

The legal aid clinic of Mar Gregorios College of Law organised speed mentoring program to students belonging to secondary, higher secondary, middle or high school classes i.e., 3rd standard/grade to 12th standard/grade. The mentoring program shall offer enriching sessions on various legal aspects related to children.

The session were on the following topics:

- Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012
- Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015
- · Child Marriage Prohibition Act
- · Right to Education Act
- · Rights of the elderly/senior citizens
- Domestic Violence
- Narcotic-Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act 1985
- · Child Labour
- · Fundamental Rights and Duties under The Constitution of India
- Cyber Laws

A. Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012

A legal awareness class was organised for the students of various schools. Firstly, the students were given a brief explanation and idea about the POCSO Act. It was explained that before the enactment of the POCSO Act there was no particular or exclusive Act governing the sexual offences that happened against children. The main problem before the enactment of the POCSO Act was that there was absolutely no act governing the sexual offences that happened against male children.

- 1. India is a country that has a huge population of children. Protection of children is a guarantee that has been enshrined in the Indian Constitution. Hence, it was of utmost importance that the POCSO Act, 2012 be enacted. Before the enactment of the POCSO Act, sexual offences against children were tried under the provisions of rape, outraging the modesty of a woman, unnatural offences, etc. under the Indian Penal Code.
- 2. The students were briefed about the important features of the POCSO Act. The POCSO Act is gender neutral. There is no distinction between male or female under this act. This Act was enacted in the best interest of the children. Various types of sexual abuses are mentioned under this Act including:

- 1. Penetrative sexual assault
- 2. Aggravated penetrative sexual assault
- 3. Sexual assault
- 4. Sexual harassment
- 5. Pornography

The children were also given a class on good touch as well as bad touch. Taught them how to identify between a good touch and bad touch and the instances where a touch can be a bad or wrong one. By the end of the class the students were aware that the POCSO Act plays a pivotal role in addressing the serious issue of child sexual abuse in India. It establishes a comprehensive legal framework to protect children, emphasizing the importance of reporting, preserving evidence, and ensuring a child-friendly legal process. By promoting awareness and stringent consequences for offenders, the act contributes significantly to creating a safer environment for the nation's youth.

B. Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015

The session codified by the members of the Legal Aid Clinic catered to touch all the vital laws in every nuance ranging from fundamental right and duty to the civil and criminal codes that re to be addressed to the students of their age and which the textbooks had lacked. Such a session was very much appreciated by the management of the Schools which turned out to give the class a tremendous reach. The Session handling the Juvenile Justice Act had been taken by giving the students a disclaimer through an awareness regarding how the judicial system works in the country and all the appalling and ghastly deeds revolving around the society at large. On laying a premise of the Judicial system and the backdrop, the speakers put forward the question "What the judicial system does to the children that are in conflict with law". Up until the session, the students that had been unaware of certain terms such as "Child in conflict with law", "Juvenile home", "Correctional home" had now made a spark in the young minds and the thought to refrain from such malpractices. The Gender neutrality, Punishments, providing best interest for the children below age of 18 years, sexual assaults, the NCPCR and SCPCR, Special Juvenile Police Unit had now been a versed facts for the children.

C. Child Marriage

The awareness class on the Child Marriage Prohibition Act was conducted for school children to educate them about the legal framework and consequences associated with child marriage. The session aimed to empower students with knowledge to prevent and address instances of child marriage.

Firstly an introduction about the Act and the history of the Act was given. The need of introduction of the Child Marriage Prohibition Act, 2006 was given. The overview of the act included the definition, legal age of marriage and the consequences for those involved in child marriage would face. Punishments prescribed for people solemnising, abetting, directing and promoting child marriages were also explained. The session then covered the reporting mechanisms. The officer appointed, his duties and other methods of reporting instances of child marriage was covered as well. This also included information on who can complain and to whom a complaint can be lodged. The session then moved on to the rights and protection measures. It emphasised on the rights of children to education, health and a safe environment. The negatives of child marriage like low literacy rate, increased maternal mortality rate etc and the protective measures under the law were also explained. Then insights on the objectives of the prohibition of Child Marriage Amendment Bill, 2021 was given. Lastly, the impact on individuals and society was discussed. This included the physical, emotional, and psychological effects on children.

D.Right to Education

The awareness session conducted on the Right to Education (RTE) Act educated students about this fundamental right to education for children aged 6-14 years.

The presenters first provided a detailed overview of the RTE Act, covering its objectives, key provisions, and entitlements. The Act aims to provide free and compulsory elementary education to all children in this age group. Under the Act, all schools must adhere to infrastructure norms, teacher qualifications, and prohibition of corporal punishment. Private schools are mandated to reserve 25% seats for economically disadvantaged children. Schools cannot deny admission to students nor can they charge capitation fees.

The students were informed that the RTE makes education a legally enforceable right. If any child is denied admission or required to drop out, they can approach local authorities and courts to demand remedies and enforcement of their right. The session emphasized that illiteracy is detrimental to individual growth while education uplifts families and society. Students pledged to exercise their right to education and also encourage their peers, especially girls and underprivileged children, to regularly attend school. Knowledge of the RTE will empower students to demand educational access when required.

E. Rights of Elderly Citizens Act

It began with the objectives, overview and key provisions of the Act. These include mandatory maintenance by children or relatives, special police units for elderly, access to healthcare, prohibiting transfer of property without consent of elderly etc. Different types of abuse like physical, emotional and financial faced by the elderly were discussed through examples.

Students were informed about procedures for filing complaints under the Act and penalties imposed on abusers. They were encouraged to confidentially report any abuse witnessed by them and extend support to elderly in need. Insights were shared on the joys of inter-generational relationships and involving youth in caregiving of the aged. Students pledged to spread awareness regarding senior citizen rights and build a society based on respect and care for the elderly.

F. Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act

The talk on domestic violence educated students about this critical social issue and the legal protections available against it. The session started with defining domestic violence, the various types of abuse like physical, verbal, emotional, sexual and economic. Statistics and examples highlighted the extensive prevalence and impacts of domestic violence on affected women and children. An overview of the Domestic Violence Act was provided - its purpose, protection officers, reliefs like protection orders and right to residence. Students were informed about mechanisms for grievance redressal like service providers, shelter homes and helplines. They were encouraged to report domestic violence incidents and support affected persons in seeking assistance. Students pledged zero tolerance for domestic abuse. The session aimed to make students sensitive allies in the fight against domestic violence in homes and society.

G. NDPS Act

The Legal Aid Clinic of Mar Gregorios College of Law had conducted a legal awareness class for SPC students of Pattom Girls School. I was assigned to take class on Drug Abuse among teenagers in connection with NDPS Act 1985. In recent years, drug abuse among teenagers have become a serious issue in India. The main reason for this is peer pressure of society and incapability to handle things. The Government has taken several measures to handle this by implementing stringent laws and regulations. Drug Abuse may lead to a wide range of physical and psychological problems. In a teenager's life it can affect the academic performance and social life. Due to increase in drug abuse cases among students of tender age an awareness class on this topic was helpful one.

Firstly, the students were given a detailing on the health consequences due to the usage of drugs. Drug abuse among teenagers can have severe health consequences, impacting both physical and mental wellbeing. Some key health risks include:

- Brain Development: Adolescence is a critical period for brain development, and drug abuse can interfere with this process. Substance use during this time may lead to cognitive impairments, memory loss, and difficulties in decision-making.
- Mental Health Issues: Drug abuse is linked to an increased risk of mental health disorders such as anxiety, depression, and even psychosis. The use of certain substances may exacerbate existing mental health conditions or trigger new ones.
- Physical Health: Different drugs can have various physical health consequences. For example, the use of tobacco, alcohol, or illicit substances can lead to cardiovascular issues, liver damage, respiratory problems, and weakened immune systems.
- 4. Addiction: Teenagers are particularly vulnerable to developing substance dependence or addiction due to the ongoing brain development. Addiction can have long-term implications, affecting their ability to lead a healthy and fulfilling life.
- 5. Academic and Social Impact; Drug abuse can negatively impact academic performance and social relationships. A teenager's focus, concentration, and motivation may decline, leading to poor school performance. Social isolation and strained relationships with family and peers can also result from substance abuse.
- Legal Consequences: In addition to health effects, drug abuse among teenagers can lead to legal issues. Possession or distribution of illegal substances can result in criminal charges, affecting their future prospects and opportunities.
- Risk-Taking Behavior: Substance abuse is often associated with risky behaviors such as unsafe sex or driving under the influence, increasing the likelihood of accidents and injuries.

Each student of the young generation should be aware of the laws and regulations that exists in India.

So, the students were given a brief explanation and a quick glance of the legal provisions relating Drug Abuse which is prescribed in NDPS Act 1985.

The Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act of 1985 in India serves as a comprehensive legislation to combat drug abuse. Enacted to regulate and control operations related to narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, the NDPS Act aims to prevent their misuse and illegal trafficking. The Act classifies substances into various schedules, imposing strict penalties for offenses. Drug abuse poses a significant societal challenge, leading to health issues, social instability, and crime. The NDPS Act addresses this by criminalizing the production, manufacture, possession, sale, purchase, transport, warehousing, use, consumption, import inter-State, export inter-State, import into India, export from India, or transshipment of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, except for medical or scientific purposes. The Act empowers these entities to take measures for the prevention, treatment, rehabilitation, and social reintegration of individuals affected by drug abuse

Some key aspects of the Act related to drug abuse include:

- Controlled Substances: The NDPS Act classifies narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances into different schedules based on their potential harm and therapeutic value. It outlines stringent regulations governing the production, manufacture, possession, sale, purchase, transport, warehousing, use, consumption, import, export, and transshipment of these substances.
- Punishments and Penalties: The Act prescribes severe penalties for various offenses related to narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances. Penalties vary based on the quantity of the substance involved, and they include imprisonment and fines. The severity of punishments reflects the government's commitment to deterring illegal activities associated with drug abuse.
- Exceptions for Medical and Scientific Purposes: While the NDPS Act imposes strict controls, it recognizes the legitimate use of certain substances for medical and scientific purposes. It establishes provisions for the production, manufacture, possession, sale, purchase, transport, warehousing, use, consumption, import, export, and transhipment of controlled substances for these purposes.
- Forfeiture of Property: The Act empowers authorities to seize and forfeit properties derived from or used in connection with drug-related offenses. This includes assets acquired through the proceeds of illegal drug trade.
- Treatment Rehabilitation: Recognizing the importance of rehabilitation, the NDPS Act encourages the establishment of treatment and rehabilitation centers for individuals affected by drug abuse. It emphasizes the need for a balanced approach that combines enforcement with measures to prevent and address the health consequences of drug abuse.
- International Cooperation: The NDPS Act aligns with international efforts to combat drug trafficking and abuse. It provides mechanisms for cooperation with other countries in investigating and prosecuting offenses related to narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances.
- Special Courts: The Act provides for the establishment of special courts to expedite the trial of offenses under the NDPS Act. This is aimed at ensuring swift justice and reinforcing the seriousness with which drug-related offenses are treated.
- Search and Seizure Powers: Law enforcement agencies are granted specific powers for the search, seizure, and arrest of individuals involved in drug-related offenses. These powers are essential for enforcing the provisions of the NDPS Act.

Children must not only be given classes on the after effects of drugs, they must also be given awareness on how to recover from it. For that, several methods of overcoming it was put forth before the students.

Several methods of help are available for individuals dealing with drug abuse. These approaches aim to address the physical, psychological, and social aspects of addiction. Some key methods include: 1, Counseling and Therapy:

- Individual Counseling: One-on-one sessions with a trained counselor or therapist to address personal issues and triggers for drug abuse.
- Group Therapy: Peer support and shared experiences in a group setting can be effective in promoting recovery and reducing feelings of isolation.

2. Medical Treatment:

- Medication-Assisted Treatment (MAT): Certain medications, when used under medical supervision, can help manage withdrawal symptoms and cravings, supporting the recovery process.
- Detoxification Programs: Medically supervised programs that help individuals safely manage the physical withdrawal symptoms when discontinuing drug use.

3.Inpatient Rehabilitation:

 Residential Treatment Centers: Comprehensive, live-in programs that provide a structured environment, counseling, and support to individuals struggling with addiction.

4.Outpatient Rehabilitation:

 Outpatient Programs: Less intensive than inpatient programs, these involve scheduled appointments for counseling, therapy, and support groups while allowing individuals to maintain their daily routines.

5. Support Groups:

- 12-Step Programs: Groups like Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) and Narcotics Anonymous (NA) provide a supportive environment for individuals to share their experiences and work towards recovery.
- SMART Recovery: An alternative to traditional 12-step programs, emphasizing selfempowerment and a science-based approach to recovery.

6. Family Therapy:

 Involving family members in the recovery process, addressing family dynamics, and providing support for both the individual with substance use disorder and their loved ones.

7. Education and Prevention Programs:

 Community-based programs and school initiatives aimed at preventing substance abuse through education and awareness.

8.Holistic Approaches

 Incorporating complementary therapies such as yoga, meditation, and art therapy to address the physical, mental, and spiritual aspects of recovery.

9. Recovery Coaching:

 Peer support from individuals who have successfully overcome addiction, offering guidance, encouragement, and practical advice.

10.Employment and Vocational Support:

 Programs that assist individuals in finding and maintaining employment, contributing to a stable and supportive environment.

Successful treatment often involves a combination of these approaches tailored to the individual's unique needs. Seeking help early, having a strong support system, and staying committed to the recovery process are essential components of overcoming drug abuse

How to help a friend struggling with drug abuse?
Express Concern Privately
Encourage Open Communication
Suggest Professional Help
Involve Trusted Adults
Be Patient and Persistent

Offer to Go with Them

Before concluding the class one among the group was selected and asked to sum-up what was taught in the class. The students got a clear picture on the topic and how it must be dealt with. As a society, fostering open communication, reducing stigma around addiction, and promoting awareness are essential steps in creating an environment where teenagers feel comfortable seeking help. By combining individualized treatment approaches, community support, and a commitment to addressing the root causes of substance abuse, we can strive to create a healthier and more resilient generation, better equipped to navigate the challenges of adolescence and beyond.

H. Child Labour

The talk on child labor created awareness among students about this illegal practice, its prohibition under law and reporting procedures.

It began by explaining the adverse physical and mental impacts of child labor like health hazards, disease, stress and deprivation from education. The enactment of Child Labor Act and subsequent bans on employing children in certain hazardous occupations were discussed. Exceptions where children can assist families in non-hazardous work were also explained.

Students were informed about duties of inspectors in monitoring child labor law violations and penalties imposed on employers contravening the Act. Mechanisms for filing complaints with local authorities were provided. Students pledged to support education of vulnerable peers who may be pulled into child labor. They also vowed to confidentially report any instances of illegal child employment. The session aimed to instill strong opposition to child labor amongst students.

I. Fundamental Rights and Duties under The Constitution of India

The educational session on the Indian Constitution created awareness among students regarding the fundamental rights and duties enshrined in it. The presenters first gave an introduction to the Constitution, its structure, key principles such as sovereignty, socialism, secularism, democracy and the preamble. The fundamental rights like right to equality, freedom of speech and expression, freedom of religion, cultural and educational rights etc. were elaborated upon. Students were informed these rights are justiciable and enforceable in a court of law.

The session also covered the fundamental duties covered under Article 51A which highlight responsibilities towards unity, harmony, protecting the environment etc. Examples of how students can uphold these duties were discussed like respecting diversity, conserving resources and having compassion for all. The interrelation between rights and duties was highlighted responsibility in exercising duties enables enjoyment of rights. The session emphasized that knowledge of the Constitution will allow students to claim their rights as well as encourage them to perform their duties as ethical, engaged citizens.

J. Cyber Laws

The presenters first offered tips on strong passwords, identifying suspicious links, being alert to online scams etc. Overviews of key laws like IT Act and POCSO pertaining to the digital space were provided. Students were informed about cyber crimes like hacking, identity theft, cyber stalking and associated penalties. Laws on child pornographic content were specifically covered to highlight strict action against online predators.

Reporting procedures for cyber crimes were shared, along with cyber cells and helplines to approach. Students were encouraged to use the internet responsibly, respect privacy of others, exercise caution in online interactions and immediately seek assistance if facing any cyber harassment. The session aimed to develop aware digital citizens and ethical computer users amongst students.

IV. STREET VENDOR ENGAGEMENT

Traditionally, street vending was a means for people to sell a variety of goods, including fresh produce, snacks, handicrafts, and textiles, to local communities. The practice has its origins in the state's vibrant marketplaces and bazaars. Throughout history, street vending in Kerala has been influenced by the region's trade connections with various cultures, including the Arabs, Chinese, and Europeans. These interactions introduced new products and techniques to street vendors, diversifying the range of goods available. Vendors in Kerala provide all kinds of services ranging from food, and clothes to handicrafts and artifacts that are notable aspects of Kerala's tradition. SM Street in Kozhikode, Fort Kochi area in Ernakulam, Connemara Market in Thiruvananthapuram, etc. are well-known areas in the state where vending thrives, attracting both local customers and tourists. The Government of Kerala has enacted Kerala Street Vendors Rules, 2018 and Kerala Street Vendors Scheme 2019 for smoother conduct of street vending. The local urban governments are given the power to legislate their own bylaws based on regional diversities to make the legal framework more inclusive and accessible.

Through initiatives like interactive surveys, flash mobs, street plays, and legal assistance, the Clinic is actively engaging with vendors to understand their issues and provide them with a platform to voice their concerns. This involvement not only fosters a deeper connection between vendors and their legal rights but also sensitizes the wider community to the invaluable contributions of street vendors, including migrant workers. The Clinic has conducted surveys and promoted the registration of vendors under MSME to create a more inclusive and regulated environment for street vending. By supplying informative pamphlets in multiple languages, the Clinic aims to bridge the gap in understanding the legal framework and rights associated with street vending, the ongoing work of the MGCL Legal Aid Clinic exemplifies the potential for collaboration between legal institutions and local communities to address societal issues. Through their continuous efforts, they are elevating the status of street vendors, enhancing their access to legal resources, and creating an atmosphere that respects and upholds their contributions. As street vending continues to evolve in response to changing times, the Clinic's contributions stand as a testament to the power of grassroots initiatives in bringing about positive change in society.

V. NON-PROFIT PARTNERING

We have partnered with Don Bosco Veedu and Women Empowerment and Human Resource Development Centre as a part of NGO partnering. Don Bosco's work for street children in Trivandrum began in 1991, initially as a night shelter at Bishop Pereira Hall and Chalai Market. The Trivandrum Don Bosco Veedu Society was registered in December 1991, focusing on rescuing and rehabilitating children through a nationwide network. The society provided home placement, legal aid, basic needs, shelter, and education. By 1994, they acquired land in Manacaud, expanding their shelter home and extending support to Karimadom Colony's slum dwellers. Initiatives included education, awareness programs, women's empowerment, financial schemes, and battling social issues like alcoholism and drug abuse. A new shelter, 'Don Bosco Nivas,' was inaugurated in 2002 near the railway station. Presently, they operate ten projects, including CHILDLINE, drug rehabilitation, women empowerment, migrant care, education, and mentoring for orphan children, showcasing a comprehensive approach to upliftment and support for women and children in need. VI. PROCEEDINGS OF LOK ADALAT

The Department of Women and Child Development provides policy guidance, designs targeted programs and projects for women and children, strengthens capacity development for gender and child rights mainstreaming, and coordinates, monitors, and evaluates effective service delivery, all for the empowerment of women and children. The Home is managed and supported by the Government of Kerala and the Department of Child and Development has held its name high. Widows, Divorced, Deserted, and Destitute Women above 18 years who have nobody to look after are admitted to Mahila Mandiram. Those women approaching the institution with their children are also allowed to stay till their child is 6 yrs old. Subsequently, these children will be accommodated in other welfare institutions and are provided with education and other facilities. Women will also be admitted at the direction of the district probation officers, police officials, court, etc.

The program posted in the Old Age Home had been a felicitous event inaugurated by the Vigilance Judge Shri. Rajgopal sir (Vigilance Judge) and presided over by DLSA Secretary Shamnad (Judge). The Inauguration held at Mahila Mandiram, Poojapura began at 9:30 with all the lighting of Lamp by the members on and off the dais. The volunteers of the session were welcomed to surround the Judge to make reports on the caucus. A fruitful session, but witnessing tears, bitterness, and drama opened a much more empirical picture of the scenarios that quite could not be equipped in the Law Books and their syllabus.

MINUTES

Date: 18th October 2023

Venue: Mahila Mandiram, Poojapura, Thiruvananthapuram.

Members Present:

- 1. Shri Rajgopal (Vigilance Judge)
- 2. Shri S. Shamnad (DLSA Secretary and Presiding Judge)
- 3.15 volunteers from MGCL Legal Aid Clinic

This was a special Lok Adalat conducted exclusively to address applications from individuals taking shelter under old age home, Mahila Mandiram (shelter home for women) and home for the physically handicapped situated in Thiruvananthapuram.

The proceedings commenced at 9:30 AM with the lighting of the lamp by the dignitaries on and off the dais.

The DLSA Secretary welcomed the volunteers and requested them to present status reports on their inquiries regarding the registered notices sent to parties and the parties' willingness to attend the Lok Adalat. The volunteers also submitted reports on petitioners' home conditions.

A total of 20 cases were listed for the Lok Adalat. The cases pertained to:

- Family disputes between mothers and their children/grandchildren resulting in their stay at Old Age Homes
- · Mothers suffering from mental health issues like dementia
- Abusive relationships between parents and children
- · Children turning against grandparents due to parental influence
- · Women who left their homes to be with lovers and ended up abandoned

Out of the 20 cases, 4 cases were fully resolved during the Lok Adalat proceedings. This included 3 cases involving elderly women and 1 case involving a youth who had eloped with her lover and ended up at the shelter. All 4 petitioners returned to their respective homes and families after reconciliation.

Out of the remaining 16 cases, some petitioners were content at the Old Age Home, with respondents keeping regular contact through visits. Sending them back was deemed dangerous for their well-being. Based on home condition reports, the panel felt some petitioners were better off staying at the Old Age Home.

The Presiding Judge heard all cases patiently and attempted reconciliation between parties. However, reconciliation could not be achieved in most cases due to years of bitterness, abusive relationships, distrust between family members, etc.

The proceedings concluded at 2 PM after distribution of gifts to mothers at the Old Age Home by officials. Lunch was also arranged for mothers and volunteers. Despite being unable to reunite most mothers with families, the Judge and team strove to bring hope and joy into their lives.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to all members.

VII. CONCLUSION

In conclusion, the Legal Aid Clinic has undertaken a multifaceted and impactful approach towards promoting legal awareness, social justice, and community engagement. The prison proceedings revealed a detailed insight into the challenges faced by inmates, emphasizing the need for comprehensive support systems within correctional facilities. The survey questionnaire designed for prisoners reflects a commitment to understanding their experiences and advocating for their rights. The speed mentoring program showcased the Clinic's dedication to nurturing legal awareness among school students, fostering insightful conversations on critical issues. The engagement with street vendors exemplifies the Clinic's proactive stance in addressing societal concerns, working towards creating an inclusive and regulated environment for their activities.

The collaboration with NGOs like Don Bosco Veed and WHI demonstrates the Clinic's commitment to extending legal aid beyond traditional boundaries, reaching out to vulnerable populations and advocating for their rights. The Lok Adalat proceedings reflect a compassionate and diligent effort to resolve familial disputes and provide support to individuals residing in shelters.

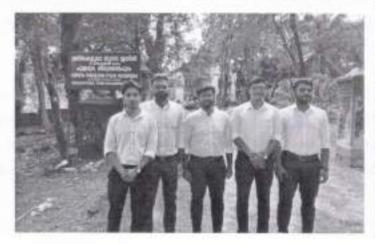

Our Legal Aid Clinic stands as a beacon of legal empowerment and community service. The diverse range of initiatives undertaken reflects a holistic approach towards addressing legal issues, promoting social justice, and fostering positive change in society. The Clinic's unwavering dedication to its mission is evident in its engagement with various segments of the community, making a significant impact on the lives of those in need.

Date: June 05, 2023

Venue: State Central Library

Objective: Aims to encourage students to act towards protecting the environment.

About the event

A clean-up drive was organized by the State Higher Education Department in association with the state NSS cell. The main purpose of this programme was to create awareness among the volunteers regarding cleanliness and its benefits. The clean-up drive was formally inaugurated at 10:30 am by the Kerala Minister for Higher Education Dr R Bindu. Every NSS volunteer was provided a set of gloves and a garbage bag to collect the waste materials. Every group was assigned to clean certain part of the State Central Library, so that most of the area of campus could be cleaned effectively. We collected about 10 bags of waste materials from Library premises. The clean-up drive was quite inspiring for all the students. Kerala Minister for Higher Education Dr R Bindu on June 02 informed that all college and university campuses in the state will be declared zero-waste on June 5, World Environment Day. While addressing the NSS volunteers, Dr R Bindu said, "The declaration, as part of Waste-Free Kerala, not only aimed at making campuses waste-and-litter-free but also send the message of waste-free public spaces through awareness activities. Students would be roped in as brand ambassadors of Waste-free Kerala. With the help of NCC and NSS volunteers and in tie-up with local body institutions, students will do house visits and make society aware of waste management."

Objective: Recognize the importance and diversity of locally produced plants

About the event

To educate students about various Organic farming techniques, NSS unit Mar Gregorios College of Law, started various organic farming techniques in the college. Like many other endeavors, we began with an agricultural farm to cultivate in the minds of our younger generation, who were drifting away from the traditional way of life to become couch potatoes, a fondness for agriculture and related activities. Volunteers from the NSS performed tasks ranging from clearing the soil to plowing. Other students who were not part of NSS were fascinated by the activities since they were captivated by the actions of the volunteers. The NSS volunteers cleared large stones and garbage from the area in order to prepare the land. All of the plowing to create pits for planting different vegetables, such as brinjal, lady fingers, numerous snake gourd kinds, chillies, pumpkin, peas, tapioca, and several plantain species, was done by the students themselves.
